Supplementary Information Requests (SIR)

During antitrust/competition investigations, we have unparalleled experience responding to requests by domestic and international agencies for the production of highly sensitive data relating to acquisitions and mergers. In fact, Epiq has been on the forefront of working with government agencies to develop successful strategies for deploying analytics tools to dramatically reduce the scope of data a company must provide.

Supplementary Information Requests (SIR) in Canada are invariably high-profile and fast-moving: the Epiq team is trained to know and understand Canadian laws and to work quickly and efficiently to ensure the best outcome possible. We work closely with you and your outside counsel to collect, process, and review data in a defensible and cost-efficient manner. As corporate transactions are coming under increasing scrutiny by multiple countries, Epiq has the international resources to respond accordingly in all countries involved. In addition to our experienced client services and consulting teams, Epiq has developed a core group of project managers and attorneys who have extensive antitrust/competition document review experience.
